Several members of the Auxiliary League who went to the headquarters in the afternoon expressed their disgust at the pictures and said that Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth had never permitted such Officers at the headquarters said that only about twenty of the auxiliaries had sent in their resignations, but it was ascertained that the revolt against the International Headquarters is increasing rapidly among the auxiliaries. Many wealthy New-Yorkers who have given money freely to aid Ballington Booth and his wife in their work have declared that the recent trouble has opened their eyes to a state of things which they had not before appreshown himself to be. The lact that control of the has placed his sons and daughters in control of the large branches of the organization in different countries has been commented on unfavorably since the arrival of Commissioners Eva C. Booth and Herbert Booth with orders to take the American branch out of the hands of Ballington Booth.

It has been declared that as General Booth is responsible to nobody for the property which has been accumulating in several parts of the world under the immediate control of his children, he might use the property for his own enrichment and nobody could prevent him. It was ascertained yesterday that Frank Harris, the secretary of the auxiliaries in Orange, had sent in his resignation and had declared that he would not give another penny for the support of the Salvation Army while it remained under the control of General Booth. penny for the support of the Salvation Army while it remained under the control of General Booth.

Another resignation which caused a stir at the headquarters was that of Staff Captain Blanche Cox, who has been in charge of a division in Washington, D. C. She was an English girl of good family when she became a warm friend of Mrs. Ballington Booth in London a dozen years ago, and she was a roommate of Mrs. Booth previous to Mrs. Booth's marriage. She organized the Street, Cellar and Garret Brigade of the Salvation Army in London. Coming to this country about five years ago, she was sent to the West to assist in the work of organization there, and she was the first Gentile woman to deliver an address in the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City. A few weeks ago she was sent to Washington to take charge of the division there. A RALLY AT COOPER UNION TO-NIGHT.

There will be a rally of the Salvationists in Cooper Union this evening, and Commissioner Eva C Booth will make an address. Officers at the headquarters said yesterday that there were indications that she would be retained in this country as the commander in place of her brother, Ballington, and that Commissioner Booth-Tucker, who had been named for the command, would remain in Londor as the chief of staff at the International Headquarters. It was said that lawyers representing the Salvation Army in America had made arrangements to go to Montclair and aid Ballington Booth to transfer the property of the Army in this country to Eva C. Booth. The officers at the head-quarters had another conference with Commissioner Eva C. Booth vesterday afternoon, and later said that there would be no statement from her until the expected statement of Ballington Booth was given Ex-Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth spent Ex-Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth spent a quiet day in their home at Montelair vesterday. The condition of Mrs. Booth continues to improve, and, in fact, she felt better yesterday afternoon than at any time for several days.

TO ISSUE A STATEMENT. The Commander and his wife will issue their statement to-day, and it will declare that in view of their not being able to say farewell through the columns of "The War Cry," which has been refused them, they will ask their friends to read the letter. The communication will say concerning their orders that they are not outside the ranks. They will deny that they "refused to obey orders," and assert that such charges are false. The haste which was adopted on receipt of their communication at International Headquarters did not enable them even to think over the matter or give them a chance to correspond further. The people on the other side call their letter one of pure resignation, though it seems to have been only a statement of the real facts of the case.

They will deny that they are out now on account of disobedience of orders, but were deliberately forced to retire. As to London's policy, the Booths say, threats and insinuations were made against them and their children.

"They tried to force us to make up our minds to go to England in less than four days and would not agree to anything we proposed," the Booths will say, "and they sent their representatives from the other side to handle us, which was a bad way to keep us in the ranks of the army."

THREATS TO GET THE BOOTHS TO ENGLAND. The communication will say concerning their orders influential friends as to what they will do, and in fact have been too much downhearted to think of anything of the kind.

The statement publicly made by Colonel Nicol that the Booths leaned toward the rich and influential, they declare is false, as all their friends know and their comrades have experienced. They declare that many have forgotten their affliction and have been persuaded to misunderstand them. The property, the Booths declare, will be turned over to those who are legally entitled to receive it. The branch of the Salvation Army in Sea Cliff disbanded yesterday. This was because of the removal of Ballington Booth from the command. Friday the captain resigned and yesterday the army followed the captain's example and left the organization.

CRASH IN THE CENTRAL YARD.

SEVERAL PASSENGERS ON A POUGH-KEEPSIE TRAIN INJURED.

COLLISION WITH A TRAIN WHICH WAS BEING

TAKEN TO THE MOTT HAVEN SHOTS-MISTAKE OF THE OPERATOR IN A SWITCH TOWER.

There was a serious collision in the Grand Cen tral Station yard yesterday merning. A through train had pulled in on Track No. 7, on the east side of the station, in the course of the morning. Its engine and baggage and express cars were detached and the passenger coaches were left on the track to be taken to the Mott Haven shops and cleaned. At 9:20 o'clock a switch engine had been attached to the cars and was to have started in a few minutes. The Poughkeepsie "local" loomed in view at that moment, on schedule time. No information is obtainable as to how the operator in the switch tower came to run the Poughkeepsle train in en Track No. 7, but it is thought by the officials that it was due to a mistaken idea that the shop train had pulled out for Mott Haven. The incoming train was running slowly, and the engineer from the switch engine saw the danger in time to slack up before the crash came. This action probably prevented loss of life.

There were about 250 passengers in the five cars of the Poughkeepsie train, and they were taken en-tirely unawares, being, in many cases, standing in the aisles. Many were thrown down, and nearly all received some injury and suffered from the violent shock. The switch engine standing on the track was forced under one of the cars. The shock in the Poughkeepsie train was most severe in the first car, where the windows were broken and several passengers were injured by flying pieces of class.

DISSATISFIED MINING BROKERS.

THEY RECOMMEND VARIOUS ALTERATIONS IN THE RULES OF THEIR EXCHANGE.

About twenty-five stockholders, that is, brokers, of the New-York Mining Exchange, which opened for business on February 20, held a meeting in the heard room yesterday afternoon to express their dissatisfaction with the management and system in vogue on the exchange. Dr. W. M. Downing was called upon to preside. C uplaints were made that who were a detriment to the institution; that the chairman, John Gray, was not qualified for his place, and that the existing rules restricted busi-

Mr. Wessner, a broker, proposed to abolish all cells, so that trading could be conducted at any time in any stocks. He was vigorously opposed, and it was resolved to recommend a change so that the calls would be held at il a. m. and 3:15 p. m. The broker who named these hours for calls exclaimed: "If we have a call at 3:15, we'll scoop the town, for the brokers on the other exchanges will come in. This call, too, will give an opportunity to get the quotations from Denver."

It was recommended that the clearing-house of the exchange should be kept open until 7 p. m., and that the clearing-house charges should be reduced on all shares selling at 50 cents a share or less from cents to 10 cents "each way" on each 1.60 shares Mr. Macfarlane shouted out: "I got a bill for $43 42 for clearing-house charges, and was fined $5 for making out my clearing-house sheet incorrectly.

making out my clearing-house sheet incorrectly. I might better let the landlord have my office and try to get into the clearing-house."

The meeting voted unanimously to have clearing-house fines remitted. It also voted to have the commissions reduced from one-half cent a share to the basis in force at Denver, on stocks selling at 50 cents a share or less. The Denver commissions are as follows: Stocks selling below 2 cents, 1-16 of a cent each way; at 2 and under 4, ½, at 4 and under 10, ½; at 30 and under 40, 5a, at 40 and under 50, ½.

It was suggested that an advisory committee of fifteen be appointed by the Board of Directors to act with the board in bringing about reforms. George V. Sims, one of the directors, made a speech, in which he said his duties as director took time from his business interests, and he was ready to resign. He knew others who were willing to retire. It was afterward said that there would be three or four changes in the Board of Directors, which will have a meeting to-morrow. Mr. Williams withdrew as a director at a meeting on Friday, and his place was taken by Mr. Drew.
